PARKING AND STUDENT SAFETY

Student safety is of paramount importance. At the beginning and end of the day, the student's safety is at risk as they enter and leave the school grounds. There are a few key things that our families can remember and adhere to which will quite easily increase student safety.

So with this in mind, please remember:

- The drop-off area on Galahad Crescent (and the new one on King Arthur Drive) is only to drop students off; in the mornings and afternoons it is for 2 minutes only, please do not park your car as this slows the traffic flow
- Only drop students off in the drop-off zone, students need to have bags and belongings ready to go
- Please observe the 'No Standing' and 'Bus' areas around the school
- It is a 40km/h zone around the school
- U-turns cannot be made on Galahad Crescent, King Arthur Drive or Staff car park drive way
- The crossing on Galahad Crescent is not manned, it is important to look out for students and adults crossing
- Students and adults must use the crossings available
- Students and adults must walk their bikes on crossings
- The school car park on Galahad Crescent is for staff only, please don't turn into this car park to drop students

Thank you for following these guidelines; it is all of our responsibility to ensure the safety of Camelot students. We remind families also that local bi-laws officers have been in Galahad Crescent recently and will photograph and fine people doing the wrong thing.

PRODUCTION

This week 'run throughs' for the Production are taking place in the gym. With the exception of Chivalry which will have their 'run through' next Tuesday. It was great to wander through and see a snapshot of what we are going to see in two weeks. The cast and staff involved are working overtime

FOUNDATION TRANSITION

Last Friday session 2 of Foundation Transition took place with a focus on the Visual Arts. Mrs Katsigiannis facilitated the session with support from current Foundation staff. Our year 5 student helpers assisted the kinder children with the activities and really enjoyed this leadership opportunity.

BABY NEWS

Congratulations to Mrs Sarah Woods and her husband Ben who are expecting their third child in February 2018. Sarah will teach up until the end of the year after which time she will be on family leave.

Also congratulations to Mrs Stephanie Johnson (4J) and her husband Paul on the safe arrival of baby Jake on Thursday 24th August.

LEAVING AT THE END OF 2017

If you believe that your child/ren may be leaving Camelot Rise at the end of 2017 (and not as a Grade 6 student), please let us know.

Obviously we don't want to see you go but understand changes to family circumstances therefore your early notification really assists with planning for next year.

Goodbye...

Term 3 and Term 4 are extremely busy for our school community. If parents need to see me to discuss any concerns, please call the school on 9803 5344 and an appointment time can be made or alternatively come to the school office for an appointment time to also be made.

Have a great week.

Victorian Curriculum – Ethical Capability

The Ethical Capability consists of two strands:

Strands	Understanding Concepts	Decision Making and Actions
	Students explore: key concepts and ideas important to identifying ethical problems and their relative importance concepts concerned with ethical outcomes, such as good, bad, right, wrong, just and unjust concepts that have ethical significance such as tolerance, greed, freedom and courage the nature and justifications of ethical principles	Students explore: ways to respond to ethical problems factors that influence ethical decision making and action challenges in managing ethical decision making and action

The Ethical capability curriculum focuses on the conceptual and analytical skills necessary for informed deliberation on ethical issues. This curriculum enables students to identify the assumptions and implications of different ethical positions, recognising the areas of contestability within those positions. It is based on three assumptions:

- many aspects of ethics are contestable and debatable and students are encouraged to challenge assumptions and to examine competing sources of authority
- the development of ethical capability is enhanced by engaging with philosophical ideas, the premises of different religions, secular world views and cultural norms
- reasoning is central to developing ethical capability and provides a way to structure competing considerations and manage judgements. Students are encouraged to confront ethical dilemmas critically, to ask whether intuition or feelings are adequate guides, and to consider how a range of principles or values contribute to their understanding of an ethical issue.

The curriculum provides the opportunity to examine multiple issues and examples sourced widely from, for example, narratives and other literary forms, current affairs, issues raised across diverse fields such as history, the arts or science, or hypothetical ethical dilemmas constructed specifically for examination of particular problems.

Students will draw on the learning set out in the critical and creative thinking continuum to develop the skills and considerations of ethical decision making and apply these to their exploration of ethical concepts, principles and problems.

Students are introduced to schools of thought and/or individual thinkers as appropriate. As a guide, the views of thinkers such as John Stuart Mill, Peter Singer, John Rawls, Kant and Aristotle can be introduced through references, including excerpts, from both primary and secondary sources. Schools of thought such as utilitarianism, relativism, realism or hedonism can be drawn on to strengthen student understanding. A range of relevant precepts are also introduced, which can include those from the five most common religions and a secular world view representative of humanism and rationalism.

Rationale

The Ethical Capability curriculum explores what it means for both an individual and society to live well. Students examine what we ought to do, how we ought to live, what kind of society we should have and what kind of person one should be. These questions concern individuals alone and relationships between people, and between people and environmental, social and economic systems. They involve contested and complex concepts. This exploration strengthens students' capacity to make decisions informed by an understanding of the values, principles, concepts and ideas that underpin different assumptions, and an ability to analyse and evaluate these.

Aims

The Ethical Capability curriculum aims to develop knowledge, understandings and skills to enable students to:

- Analyse and evaluate ethical issues, recognising areas of contestability
- Identify the bases of ethical principles and ethical reasoning
- Engage with the challenges of managing ethical decision making and action for individuals and groups
- Cultivate open-mindedness and reasonableness.

Changes to cleaning in Victorian Government schools

During 2018, the Department of Education and Training (DET) will introduce an area-based cleaning model for metropolitan schools, and measures to improve school cleaning in regional schools. These new changes will affect current cleaning arrangements in all Victorian government schools.

A key part of these reforms is to strengthen fair working conditions for the school cleaning workforce.

For more information about these changes and what they mean for you, email the School Contract Cleaning Unit on cleaning@edumail.vic.gov.au, visit the DET website or call 1300 842 754.
